Welcome To Paradise!

Well we just made it through Pride and the island actually felt "normal" (or in our case, "abnormal") finally!

Continuing on that path, Bone Island is back this month, uncensored!

Have a great time and let it all hang out!

Enjoy!

LEZ GO OUT

July is the best kept secret of Key West. Tell all of the other lesbians. It's warm enough that that you wear cute little cutoff outfits but not so warm that you melt as you walk down Duval. Day drinking is still fun because you're not dangerously dehydrated after a half of a cocktail. Sitting outside at a restaurant under an umbrella and ordering a salad - totally doable. It's not wilted in 10 seconds. July is the local's perfect summer. The sun sets and with it the heat drops. Walking at night locals greet each other with, "isn't this the PERFECT temperature?". It's also not as crowded because it has started to get nicer everywhere else in the country. Well, Wisconsinites still have to come down but the rest of the country is nice. Sorry Cheeseheads. We're still happy you're here. It could still freeze there, you know!

This is when the locals get to play tourist for a little while. We go out to the sandbars, spend the weekend on the boat, we go out to eat on Duval (because we can get in) and our family can get reasonable rates at a hotel (because they're not staying longer than the 3 night cap at their family's home) and we really get to enjoy the island.

The water is cool enough to feel great but not so cold that the thin-skinned local can't get in. There is space at Fort Zachary Taylor State Park to grill and set up our 15 hammocks and create our family pods for the whole day!

Lesbians, if you're looking for the perfect time to come here as a large group, this is it. Call Alexander's Guesthouse and book up the place. It's currently the only gay guesthouse that really caters to lesbians as well. My wife and I would only stay there when we were tourists. You won't get a warmer welcome anywhere! This is a great time to enjoy the keys and you'll probably get to meet a bunch of locals that don't leave their house in busy season OR when it's sweltering in the deep of our summer.

Oh! You have to see the clouds!!! If you haven't ever been here in a summer then you're missing what my wife and I refer to as "cloud season". It truly is. This time of year the clouds form these tall grand stacks of huge rotund clouds that are a completely contained and isolated thunderstorms. No kidding! You can see all of the way around it! The sunsets are always iconic but these really top them all. A photographer friend of mine has even captured the green flash here. I swear that the reds, burgundy's and purples are more vibrant this time of year, too. I think we should call a lesbian meeting by the beach, bring our dogs, grill out our vegan tofutti burgers and take over Key West for the month of July. Calling all camping lesbians!! Can someone coordinate this please??

We'll, Pride month just finished up and I forgot to make my Local Lesbian Realtor shirt but I have a month or two to get that done so I'll have that to wear in September (1-5) for Womenfest. Can you tell that this is my personal ad for the lesbian community to come visit me in July? There were so many women here for pride month it was phenomenal but the island gets lesbian-less in July and August! I miss walking down the street and practicing my nod of gay recognition. I just love it when there are so many of us walking around that you can't swing a cat and not hit one of us! (Heh. There's a joke in there somewhere...) So call up all of your lesbian friends and say Lez Go Out to Key West in July, ok? There's a ton to do and I'll tell you about all of the lesbian owned and run establishments that you can go to while you're here. I miss everybody... I get so spoiled in June!!

Ok. Stay safe and healthy everyone. I'll just count the days to September. I'm looking forward to having countless lesbians back on my little island for Womenfest! Call us if you coordinate July. Seriously! We love to meet new lesbians who visit the island!! Hope to see you le$beans soon!

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR BIKTARVY®

This is only a brief summary of important information about BIKTARVY and does not replace talking to your healthcare provider about your condition and your treatment.

(bik-TAR-vee)

MOST IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT BIKTARVY

BIKTARVY may cause serious side effects, including:

- ▶ Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV, your HBV may suddenly get worse if you stop taking BIKTARVY. Do not stop taking BIKTARVY without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to check your health regularly for several months.

ABOUT BIKTARVY

BIKTARVY is a complete, 1-pill, once-a-day prescription medicine used to treat HIV-1 in adults and children who weigh at least 55 pounds. It can either be used in people who have never taken HIV-1 medicines before, or people who are replacing their current HIV-1 medicines and whose healthcare provider determines they meet certain requirements.

BIKTARVY does not cure HIV-1 or AIDS. HIV-1 is the virus that causes AIDS.

Do NOT take BIKTARVY if you also take a medicine that contains:

- ▶ dofetilide
- ▶ rifampin
- ▶ any other medicines to treat HIV-1

POSSIBLE SIDE EFFECTS OF BIKTARVY

BIKTARVY may cause serious side effects, including:

- ▶ Those in the "Most Important Information About BIKTARVY" section.
- ▶ Changes in your immune system. Your immune system may get stronger and begin to fight infections.

Tell your healthcare provider if you have any new symptoms after you start taking BIKTARVY.

- ▶ Kidney problems, including kidney failure. Your healthcare provider should do blood and urine tests to check your kidneys. If you develop new or worse kidney problems, they may tell you to stop taking BIKTARVY.
- ▶ Too much lactic acid in your blood (lactic acidosis), which is a serious but rare medical emergency that can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: weakness or being more tired than usual, unusual muscle pain, being short of breath or fast breathing, stomach pain with nausea and vomiting, cold or blue hands and feet, feel dizzy or lightheaded, or a fast or abnormal heartbeat.
- ▶ Severe liver problems, which in rare cases can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: skin or the white part of your eyes turns yellow, dark "tea-colored" urine, light-colored stools, loss of appetite for several days or longer, nausea, or stomach-area pain.
- ▶ The most common side effects of BIKTARVY in clinical studies were diarrhea (6%), nausea (6%), and headache (5%).

These are not all the possible side effects of BIKTARVY. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you have any new symptoms while taking BIKTARVY.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.FDA.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Your healthcare provider will need to do tests to monitor your health before and during treatment with BIKTARVY.

BEFORE TAKING BIKTARVY

Tell your healthcare provider if you:

- ▶ Have or have had any kidney or liver problems, including hepatitis infection.
- ▶ Have any other health problems.
- ▶ Are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if BIKTARVY can harm your unborn baby. Tell your healthcare provider if you become pregnant while taking BIKTARVY.
- ▶ Are breastfeeding (nursing) or plan to breastfeed. Do not breastfeed. HIV-1 can be passed to the baby in breast milk.

Tell your healthcare provider about all the medicines you take:

- ▶ Keep a list that includes all prescription and over-the-counter medicines, antacids, laxatives, vitamins, and herbal supplements, and show it to your healthcare provider and pharmacist.

- ▶ BIKTARVY and other medicines may affect each other. Ask your healthcare provider and pharmacist about medicines that interact with BIKTARVY, and ask if it is safe to take BIKTARVY with all your other medicines.

HOW TO TAKE BIKTARVY

Take BIKTARVY 1 time each day with or without food.

"AS A WOMAN: WHAT I LEARNED ABOUT POWER, SEX, AND THE PATRIARCHY AFTER I TRANSITIONED" BY PAULA STONE WILLIAMS

c.2021. Atria Books | $27.00 | 256 pages

There are two sides to every story.

In politics, there's left and right; in fairy tales, it's good or evil. Guilty or innocent in court, salty or spicy mealtimes, dog or cat among friends, heads or tails. Sometimes you choose and at other times, like in "As a Woman" by Paula Stone Williams, you can see both sides.

From the time he was very small, Paul Williams thought that he "should have been born a girl." He wasn't bitter about it – not when he was a teen, not even as an adult – but it lingered in the background of his life.

Oh, he tried to tamp down his desires to dress in his mother's clothes but he could not, though he knew it would anger her. She caught him once wearing his Grandmother's cast-offs and he never forgot her reaction; even so, he ransacked her closet at least once a week during his adolescence, hoping his parents wouldn't come home early.

His feelings of furtiveness were perhaps exacerbated by a family legacy of evangelical ministry. Every man he knew was a leader in their church; when he was young, it was assumed that Williams would follow them, as if there was no other option. And so, dutifully, he became a CEO in a "church planting" organization. He married a woman he genuinely loved, and they started a family.

But the urges didn't go away. As his children grew and left the nest, Williams began to explore the possibility of letting out the woman he was inside. He confessed everything to his wife, started hormones, and asked for his wife's silence until he made plans for a transition physically and at work. He'd been at the organization for thirty-five years, and he was respected, although less than he believed. Williams was fired and humiliated.

Marriage in question, children shaken, job gone, he began to assess his life.

The world needed to know the truth.

And so, on July 29, 2014, Paula Stone Williams officially took to her blog...

Come to "As a Woman" looking for a memoir, and you're going to be happy: most of the pages here tell a tale of transitioning while immersed in a major evangelical organization, which are generally incompatible things. This is interesting, told in an unabashedly forward manner as author Paula Stone Williams resists minimizing her male past.

Dig deeper, though, and there's more to this book: its look at the difference in how society as a whole regards the roles of men and women, from someone with knowledge of both, is funny and sharp-eyed, and could serve as a primer-slash-warning for newly-transitioning women. It's fiery, it's sometimes the tiniest bit whiny, it's a little repetitious, and it's eyebrow-raising with a dash of heated argument-starter for zest.

In the end, "As a Woman" leaves a lot for female readers to agree with; Williams' observations are honed, hard, and honest. Men, however – particularly cis men – could take umbrage at her observations, and might give this book a little bit of side-eye.

MARKET PRICE

You know how when you go out to a fancy restaurant, there is always an item or two on the menu that say "market price". This is often for something like caviar or (during the crazier months of the pandemic): toilet paper. Well, I recently started going on dates again. Not Grindr or Scruff dates, but actual dates where you eat and drink together in a real live restaurant. I think I'm partially doing this just to get out of the house again. Here in LA, we're just coming out of one of the country's longest lockdowns. So really any excuse to get outside and socialize seems like a good idea... at first. I chose dating for a few reasons: First, I miss restaurants, second, I miss dick, and third, I don't fuck around with nature. And, despite what you see or don't see in the movies, Los Angeles has a fuck ton of nature. So much hiking... there is so much hiking. And all you see when you get to the top of the hiking is a clearer view of the smog and how out of shape you are compared to the OnlyFans "models" who have brought a ring light up a mountainside despite the fact it is 1pm and the sun is already nature's ring light. But I digress...

I went on two dates in the same week and I thought I might have gotten rusty at small talk. Or even just at any talk that didn't take place on a zoom. Well, I can gladly say I'm still ahead of the curve than most. The first guy, let's call him Mark (since I'm pretty sure that's what his name was). I'm not very good at names. It's not you it's me, believe me. I once called a guy by the wrong name when he was inside of me. We'd been dating for 3 months. Anyway, Mark is bisexual. Some of you I know will roll your exceedingly gay eyes at that notion. But I can assure you they do exist. Also, bisexual men tend to work well for me. I'm a busy guy and if I can have a nice guy in my life who has at least one other person who can take him off my hands when I'm traveling for work or binging Mare of Easttown, then it's a win-win! Assuredly, Mark was a little out of practice with his dinner conversation. We were exchanging funny sex stories when he told me how he was a late bloomer. He didn't have sex with anyone until he was 25. That person was a woman named Stephanie and she was, in Mark's own zesty description, a "squirter". "But I sure lucked out because she was the sort of squirter where it's sort of like you got spritzed with a Windex bottle." Moments later I assured our waiter that there was nothing at all wrong with my soup, but that I would not be finishing the lobster bisque.

What can I say about the second date? It was set up by friend of mine. I cannot tell you, one way or another, if this polite young man is on Autism spectrum or not. I'm a clown not a doctor. And frankly, I would have no issues at all about dating someone on the spectrum. I have friends on the spectrum and frankly they have a lot less issues than most of my friends in comedy and West Hollywood combined! Mostly, I would just worry about someone on the spectrum dating me, since loud noises can be a problem from those on the autism spectrum, and I am basically made of loud noises.

But since the date consisted of him never making eye contact with me but talking A LOT about flags... I feel comfortable saying he's on the spectrum and that I'm probably not his Prince Charming. So, if you're heading back out into the dating pool, post pandemic, let me just tell you now that it's probably best to stay out of the deep end until you get your sea legs back.

Welcome Naked Men

Kevin, Jason and I are extremely happy to welcome everyone to Bone Island Bare It All. We've missed you! With the isolating and stressful year of 2020 thankfully behind us, I am beyond excited to see all of my returning friends, and eager to introduce newcomers to a weekend of all-male naturist fun as only Key West can offer. By the end of the weekend, everyone will have made new friends, had new experiences, and feel re-invigorated in a way that only the freedom of a naturist experience can provide. I hope you will enjoy the experience as much as I know I will.

I started Bone Island Bare It All in December 2006 as a way to gather naturist men for a weekend of camaraderie, and to share with them the beauty and fun of Key West. Now, perhaps more than ever that objective feels timely. After many of us have spent more than a year of being solitary and separated from those we care about, I feel privileged to have the ability to bring us back together – to proudly celebrate our community, our island, our bodies, and each other. Thank YOU for being here and making my dream come true.

We wouldn't all be able to enjoy ourselves so much without the support and encouragement of our friends in the local community. This event is without question a community effort, and it's important to recognize all of our business partners for their continued assistance. They welcome us on their properties with open arms. They and their staffs provide us fabulous venues to enjoy our weekend together, and believe me when I tell you how much our island of professional service people have missed you! During your weekend, please remember to show some love to all of our sponsors and partners, especially the servers and service people who are working so hard to make sure you have a fun and comfortable visit!

I'm very proud of how far Bone Island Bare It All has come since that first weekend in 2006. Each time, more men discover our unique brand of fun, and go home telling their friends about it. That word of mouth is really the driving force behind the continued success of the weekend. So, thanks for getting vaccinated and choosing to make the trip down to our island paradise; thanks for telling your friends about your adventures; and thanks most of all for making Bone Island Bare It All the joy it is for me and our local community. Without you guys, I'd just be sitting in my backyard naked (while that's fun, I did way too much of it in 2020...)

Remember the sunscreen; remember to play safe; and enjoy your Bone Island experience!

ASK NANA

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

My family is really pushing me to join them on a family cruise (now that cruise ships are going to be sailing again soon). I've gone on family cruises before and they've been fun and I love my family. But half of my family still won't get vaccinated. Though I am, I'm really worried about them, especially the kids, getting sick if we just jump on the first Disney cruise ship to sail after Covid. I know my worry won't change anything but is it worth causing a family fight about vaccination (again)?

Dear Heart, did you just say "Disney" cruise ship?! Covid-Shmovid! You couldn't get me on board a ship full of sticky, screaming musketeers if you paid me. Covid would be the least of my worries. I'd be more concerned about catching literally every other bug you could catch. Well, not every single one. I'm assume the Chlamydia rates in 8-year-olds are still pretty low. Unless the ship leaves from Jacksonville; in which case it's anyone's guess. Listen, we all didn't live through the last year and half to have our first vacation be stress-filled, partially animated Escape Room at sea. If it's that big of a worry for you, get out of this one family trip. And frankly, if you're as tired as we all are of covid-related trauma: just lie. You're a family, for Christ's sake! If you can't lie to each other to protect the sanity of everyone involved, who can you lie to?! But I'm sure Disney is doing all it can to make the ships safer than most other places your family visits. If your nieces and nephews have eaten at an Arby's in the last 2 years and are still alive... I'm confident they won't need a burial at sea.

Dear Nana,

So, I totally didn't get rid of all my covid weight gain before bathing suit season. And now I feel less than confident rocking my gay bathing suits since I'm now sort of spilling out of them. I bought a few new ones just until I can lose this last 10 pounds but I still don't feel great when I put them on. Do have any tips on how to, sort of, give yourself some extra confidence?

Well, you're a gay man... so I assume you've heard of "vodka"? It sure does seem to give a lot of you a hell of a lot of confidence! But, just in case you're not a drinker (and because those are empty calories anyway), here are some other things to help you get back to being a beach bitch. First of all, WE ALL GOT FAT! So, relax. The only people who got in better shape during covid were porn stars and sociopaths. Also, and I know this is a big pill to swallow (even for aa gay man)... You are more than your body. Now stop and reread that phrase at least 3 times. You have a heart and a mind and personality. You have friends and family... and probably a small gay dog. You're not just a dick and a hole. I mean, you are those things too and by all means shake what the gay Lord gave you, but don't literally keep the sun from shining on yourself just because you ate a bagel. I promise you that you'll still look skinny... next to ocean.

DO YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? OF COURSE YOU DO! WHY NOT LET NANA HELP YOU?!
