Welcome to Paradise!

Twice a year, naturists come to Key West and enjoy our little island paradise
Au Natural!

This semi-annual event is referred to as "Bone Island" which was the original Spanish name for the island (Cayo Hueso).

It has a very different meaning this month
however!

Enjoy!

YOU MATTER AND SO DOES YOUR HEALTH

That's why starting and staying on HIV-1 treatment is so important.

What is DESCOVY®?

DESCOVY is a prescription medicine that is used together with other HIV-1 medicines to treat HIV-1 in people 12 years and older. DESCOVY is not for use to help reduce the risk of getting HIV-1 infection. DESCOVY combines 2 medicines into 1 pill taken once a day. Because DESCOVY by itself is not a complete treatment for HIV-1, it must be used together with other HIV-1 medicines.

DESCOVY does not cure HIV-1 infection or AIDS.

To control HIV-1 infection and decrease HIV-related illnesses, you must keep taking DESCOVY. Ask your healthcare provider if you have questions about how to reduce the risk of passing HIV-1 to others. Always practice safer sex and use condoms to lower the chance of sexual contact with body fluids. Never reuse or share needles or other items that have body fluids on them.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

What is the most important information I should know about DESCOVY?

DESCOVY may cause serious side effects:

- Buildup of an acid in your blood (lactic acidosis), which is a serious medical emergency. Symptoms of lactic acidosis include feeling very weak or tired, unusual muscle pain, trouble breathing, stomach pain with nausea or vomiting, feeling cold (especially in your arms and legs), feeling dizzy or lightheaded, and/or a fast or irregular heartbeat.
- Serious liver problems. The liver may become large and fatty. Symptoms of liver problems include your skin or the white part of your eyes turning yellow (jaundice); dark "tea-colored" urine; light-colored bowel movements (stools); loss of appetite; nausea; and/or pain, aching, or tenderness on the right side of your stomach area.

- You may be more likely to get lactic acidosis or serious liver problems if you are female, very overweight, or have been taking DESCOVY for a long time. In some cases, lactic acidosis and serious liver problems have led to death. Call your healthcare provider right away if you have any symptoms of these conditions.
- Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. DESCOVY is not approved to treat HBV. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV and stop taking DESCOVY, your HBV may suddenly get worse. Do not stop taking DESCOVY without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to monitor your health.

What are the other possible side effects of DESCOVY?

Serious side effects of DESCOVY may also include:

- Changes in body fat, which can happen in people taking HIV-1 medicines.
- Changes in your immune system. Your immune system may get stronger and begin to fight infections. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any new symptoms after you start taking DESCOVY.
- Kidney problems, including kidney failure. Your healthcare provider should do blood and urine tests to check your kidneys. Your healthcare provider may tell you to stop taking DESCOVY if you develop new or worse kidney problems.
- Bone problems, such as bone pain, softening, or thinning, which may lead to fractures. Your healthcare provider may do tests to check your bones.

The most common side effect of DESCOVY is nausea. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any side effects that bother you or don't go away.

Ask your healthcare provider if an HIV-1 treatment that contains DESCOVY® is right for you.

What should I tell my healthcare provider before taking DESCOVY?

- All your health problems. Be sure to tell your healthcare provider if you have or have had any kidney, bone, or liver problems, including hepatitis virus infection.
- All the medicines you take, including prescription and over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements. Other medicines may affect how DESCOVY works. Keep a list of all your medicines and show it to your healthcare provider and pharmacist. Ask your healthcare provider if it is safe to take DESCOVY with all of your other medicines.

- If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if DESCOVY can harm your unborn baby. Tell your healthcare provider if you become pregnant while taking DESCOVY.
- If you are breastfeeding (nursing) or plan to breastfeed. Do not breastfeed. HIV-1 can be passed to the baby in breast milk.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Please see Important Facts about DESCOVY, including important warnings, on the following page.

IMPORTANT FACTS

This is only a brief summary of important information about DESCOVY® and does not replace talking to your healthcare provider about your condition and your treatment.

MOST IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT DESCOVY

DESCOVY may cause serious side effects, including:

- Buildup of lactic acid in your blood (lactic acidosis), which is a serious medical emergency that can lead to death. Call your healthcare provider right away if you have any of these symptoms: feeling very weak or tired, unusual muscle pain, trouble breathing, stomach pain with nausea or vomiting, feeling cold (especially in your arms and legs), feeling dizzy or lightheaded, and/or a fast or irregular heartbeat.
- Severe liver problems, which in some cases can lead to death. Call your healthcare provider right away if you have any of these symptoms: your skin or the white part of your eyes turns yellow (jaundice); dark "tea-colored" urine; loss of appetite; light-colored bowel movements (stools); nausea; and/or pain, aching, or tenderness on the right side of your stomach area.
- Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. DESCOVY is not approved to treat HBV. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV, your HBV may suddenly get worse if you stop taking DESCOVY. Do not stop taking DESCOVY without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to check your health regularly for several months.

You may be more likely to get lactic acidosis or severe liver problems if you are female, very overweight, or have been taking DESCOVY or a similar medicine for a long time.

ABOUT DESCOVY

- DESCOVY is a prescription medicine that is used together with other HIV-1 medicines to treat HIV-1 in people 12 years of age and older. DESCOVY is not for use to help reduce the risk of getting HIV-1 infection.
- DESCOVY does not cure HIV-1 or AIDS. Ask your healthcare provider about how to prevent passing HIV-1 to others.

HOW TO TAKE DESCOVY

- DESCOVY is a one pill, once a day HIV-1 medicine that is taken with other HIV-1 medicines.
- Take DESCOVY with or without food.

POSSIBLE SIDE EFFECTS OF DESCOVY

DESCOVY can cause serious side effects, including:

- Those in the "Most Important Information About DESCOVY" section.
- Changes in body fat.
- Changes in your immune system.
- New or worse kidney problems, including kidney failure.
- Bone problems.

The most common side effect of DESCOVY is nausea.

These are not all the possible side effects of DESCOVY. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you have any new symptoms while taking DESCOVY.

Your healthcare provider will need to do tests to monitor your health before and during treatment with DESCOVY.

BEFORE TAKING DESCOVY

Tell your healthcare provider if you:

- Have or had any kidney, bone, or liver problems, including hepatitis infection.
- Have any other medical condition.
- Are pregnant or plan to become pregnant.
- Are breastfeeding (nursing) or plan to breastfeed. Do not breastfeed if you have HIV-1 because of the risk of passing HIV-1 to your baby.

Tell your healthcare provider about all the medicines you take:

- Keep a list that includes all prescription and over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements, and show it to your healthcare provider and pharmacist.
- Ask your healthcare provider or pharmacist about medicines that should not be taken with DESCOVY.

GET MORE INFORMATION

- This is only a brief summary of important information about DESCOVY. Talk to your healthcare provider or pharmacist to learn more.
- Go to DESCOVY.com or call 1-800-GILEAD-5

“Marilyn Forever” by Boze Hadleigh

c.2016, Taylor Trade

$14.95

154 pages

People will talk.

And that can be a bad thing: gossip is often mean, and its shelf-life is sometimes longer than we'd like. On the other hand, a bit of scandalous chatter can be great: as in the new book “Marilyn Forever” by Boze Hadleigh, if people are talking about you, they'll remember you.

Through the years, plenty of people have had plenty to say about Marilyn Monroe, both during her career and after her death. Much of the snark was just that: Anne Baxter said she “got fed up” with studio bosses fussing over Monroe and ignoring “those of us who could actually act!” Elizabeth Taylor had nothing good to say about Monroe, and was reportedly scandalized by rumors of Monroe's affair with another woman.

And yet, some saw deep into Monroe's soul, and they loved her for it.

Shirley MacLaine remembers Monroe as being an intelligent woman, despite the personae Monroe cultivated; Jerry Orbach remembers Monroe's “heart,” and shares a story of what she did for soldiers in Korea. Likewise, Shari Lewis tells of Monroe's brave stand, in pre-Civil Rights America, on behalf of Ella Fitzgerald.

Michael Jackson said that just thinking about Monroe "makes you want to cry."

Just before Monroe died, she was said to be excited about being a new homeowner. She was in perhaps the best shape she'd been in for years, and was ready for a resurgence of her career. Her death made no sense: did she make a mistake with champagne and drugs? Or was it something more sinister? No one knows, but at least one Hollywood star muses about roles Monroe might have had in her later years, had she still been alive.

Will we ever forget her? Will we ever stop talking about Marilyn Monroe?

No, says Hugh Hefner, and "... fortunately there's certainly a lot left to dream about her."

Everyone knows that names hurt just as much as sticks and stones, despite what you once claimed on the playground. But how affected was Marilyn Monroe by the things others said about her? In "Marilyn Forever," you'll see.

Through this collection of quotes and thoughts on Monroe, author Boze Hadleigh offers a portrait of the star through the eyes of people who knew her and worked with her. As readers might expect, there's quite a good bit of nastiness here; the claws come out and "meow" fairly drips from those sentences. Monroe, it's said, was naturally quite hurt by such comments.

But Hadleigh doesn't let those things drive this book.

There's love here, and it's striking: stories of a make-up artist who, years later, couldn't bear to discuss his friendship with Monroe. Tears are admitted by "He-Man" types, and more than one star spoke with sympathy about a woman they greatly admired.

That gives this book a good balance and further insight to an actress who's been gone for (can you believe it?) more than five decades. If you're a fan, time flies and "Marilyn Forever" is a book you won't stop talking about.

MY BIG GAY LIFE

by: Brad Loekle

Since it's the holidays, I thought I'd give you one last gift from my new book: My Big Gay Life! After this, you'll have to buy the damn thing if you want all the other juiciness. I hope you all deck your halls with love and laughter and I hope you all find a way to put a little bit of the HO back in Holidays!

from Chapter 13: Wishful Sinking

I'm sitting in the sand on the beach of a small private island in the Caribbean and I am being very still. I am being very still because if I move she's going to know that I know what I just saw. Or maybe she won't. I don't know but I feel like I can't risk it. No, I can't risk it and I can't look away from what I've just seen but I want to. I want to look away badly. I should probably mention that the she I'm referring to is Carrie Fisher. And the thing I can't look away from is her vagina. I'm staring at Carrie Fisher's vagina. I don't want to be, and I sure as shit didn't mean to, but she, all of the sudden, got up, adjusted her bathing suit and there it was. Well half of it, at least. I assume half, as I've never really seen one other than the medical chart in eighth grade health class. I guess technically I did see the one I came out of, way back in the beginning, but even then I'm pretty sure I had my eyes closed and was screaming in the fetal position. All I know is my sightline has been completely absorbed by, let's call it, "a side vag view" of Ms. Fisher's nooks and crannies which has absorbed both my gaze and the section of Lycra swimsuit meant to keep it away from prying eyes. So I guess this is my life now. This is my new normal.

Carrie and I met only in passing on the last week aboard RSVP Vacation's Caribbean cruise. I was currently the cruise director, my first time in this very hectic and visible job. I'd been a comedian for Atlantis (the other large gay cruise company) for about three years when the owner of both decided to give me a try as cruise director. I really connected with all the guests and the entertainers and was having a ball. It also didn't hurt that the ship's regular cruise director, Jason, was barely in his thirties and looked like he'd walked out of a Melrose Place episode. Together, we were a perfect combination of beauty and comedy. All in all, I thought this new gig of mine was working out pretty well. And up until accidentally staring down Leia's labia, everything was. So imagine my surprise when... BAM! Bush.

It wasn't so much that seeing Princess Leia's postmenopausal lady business ruined my childhood. Because... and here's where I know I'll get some hate mail... I never gave a fuck about Princess Leia. Or Luke. Or Yoda. Or Tatooine. Or anything related to Star Wars. I didn't not care about it, but I didn't actually care about it either. I was just never that kid. I was more of a Legend and The Dark Crystal sort of gay kid. And, for the record, I wasn't into Legend because a very young Tom Cruise was in it—a Tom Cruise movie somehow made during the six months of his life he could have been a Bel Ami porn star. No, I was more in love with the giant, muscular Satan-Satyr that was part Tim Curry and part Tom of Finland sex monster. So, yeah, boys shooting lasers at each other in space was not my prepubescent cup of tea...

The truth is the part of my childhood that Carrie just ruined was the part where I was the odd little boy obsessed with movies like Postcards from the Edge and Soapdish. This sassy, sharp, quick-witted lady who'd thrown off the gumdrop MGM veneer of her famous family's background had now become this slightly disheveled, damp, middle-aged woman adjusting her bathing suit in public—and to less than ideal ends.

I spent almost the whole day on the ship's private island with Carrie as her chaperone and Gay Gal Friday. It was the last full night of our cruise and Carrie was the big star whose one-woman show would end the week with a bang! She would be doing an abridged version the Broadway show based on her brilliant book Wishful Drinking. I loved the book and had seen her do the show on Broadway twice. Ms. Fisher was traveling with only her personal assistant, a sweet young man named Byron, and her French bulldog; I decided it was best to hang close to her on the beach. It would give us a chance to talk about how she wanted to handle the tech rehearsal for her show, and let me act as a buffer to any guests trying to get too weird with her. I may not have watched Star Wars but I do understand she is Princess Leia and I wasn't going to let some comic-con queen try to smell (or cut off) her hair while she was sunbathing... Who am I kidding? I wanted to spend the goddamn day with Carrie Fisher and endear myself enough to her that she might feel comfortable telling me a story or two about her mom, her exes, her life in Hollywood... I mean, I'm only human and I have dreams too, people! Who wouldn't want that?!

For five hours I schlepped around the beach with a true Hollywood star, her assistant Byron, and her little black French bulldog, Gary. Yes, Carrie has a dog named Gary. And Gary has a tongue too big for his mouth. I don't mean that figuratively or as some sort of satirical statement on the dogs of Hollywood actresses—I mean his tongue literally doesn't fit in his little smooshed up snout. Gary always looks like he's sticking his tongue out at you. It was adorable when he was jaunting down a hallway on the ship, but not so much now. On the beach his tongue had become terrestrial flypaper, quickly matted up with sand and cigarette butts and condom wrappers.

Carrie liked me. I don't want to imply we're besties or that she'd even remember me now without a reminder of the fateful night that lay before us, but I think I managed to make her feel comfortable without kissing her ass. I am, if nothing else, a devotee of other people who make art and entertainment. I am, proudly, that age-old gay cliché of the fairy who knows every line to All About Eve and every bit of drama behind the scenes when they were making it. From the time I was a small child and realized the people on TV, in movies, and making music were real mammals doing their jobs, I knew it all I wanted to do with my own life. I wanted to know as much as possible about their lives as well. So for me, Carrie was a rare bird; she came forth from two icons of Hollywood's golden age and was still a brilliant artist in her own right. And she didn't disappoint. Once she found out I was a comedian, worked in TV, and was about to move to Los Angeles—she regaled me with stories of Phyllis Diller, Joan Rivers, her mom's favorite dirty joke... Oh, for the millennials, Carrie's mom is Debbie Reynolds. Debbie Reynolds is a goddamn miracle of nature and if you don't know anything about her then please put down the tablet computer you're reading this on and go learn something! Anyway... Carrie told me her mom's favorite dirty joke:

How do you get a nun pregnant?
You fuck her!!

I hear Carrie Fisher say this joke with that distinct timbre that is "Carrie Fisher," my big gay brain simultaneously hears it in her mother's voice and I have an intellectual orgasm. I suddenly feel like every boring, beige moment of my rural childhood was worth it if it led to this day at the beach. Whereas Carrie spent most of her childhood longing for normalcy, I longed for anything but. I guess the grass is always greener... Personally, I longed for my grass to be Technicolor artificial turf laid by union workers and painted to look even greener on screen. Carrie just longed for grass...

Almost from the beginning of the day I noticed Carrie seemed a bit flightier than I expected. It seemed hard for her to focus; she'd jump frantically from topic to topic. One minute she'd be running full speed down the beach smoking a nicotine vape pen, with Gary in fast pursuit, and the next she'd be sitting in a near catatonic state. But Byron didn't seem too phased by it so I figured I was just finally seeing, first hand, the life and times of someone who'd been famous before they'd even been born! Carrie's life is probably one of the most consistently documented lives of the Twentieth Century. Like Jesus, her arrival was proclaimed long before she'd even crowned. Throughout her life she has been celebrated and dissected in equal measure by a public as adoring as they are ravenous. When you add in years of well-publicized drug use and a healthy smattering of psychosis and electroshock therapy— you're bound to get a slightly eccentric final cut.

Carrie had on a tasteful, if not dour, plum bathing suit. It was more of a bathing costume: part bathing suit and part dress. The sort of suit you see wealthy white women of a certain age and visage wear to a beach club. Her hair was pulled up on top of her head in sort of tousled braids—less Leia and more Lilith Fair. She applied, reapplied, and reapplied her wine-stain lipstick and violet eye glitter with such frequency that, had I really been paying attention, I would have recognized where I'd seen this kind of behavior before. But I was new to the job—and proximity to stardom; so it all kind of blew past me in the warm Caribbean air.

ZACHARY MOSES : MAN ABOUT TOWN

I've spent most of 2016 flying back and forth between Salt Lake City, Utah and Key West, Florida. I've been in Salt Lake City opening satellite offices for HeTravel.com, an online Gay Tour Operator proudly headquartered in Key West, Florida. That's right. We're bringing our "One Human Family" gay travel motto to Salt Lake City, Utah. We must've found something. Ask me about it at info@hetravel.com

Did you know that Pan-Am Airlines was founded in Key West? Seriously, their first headquarters was on the corner of Whitehead and Greene St. Go check it out. You'd never have guessed that little cottage would birth the largest airline in the United States from 1927 to 1991. That's something for conchs and visitors alike to be proud of.

Key West's history is rooted in travel, and December is the best month for it! I'm back in town and I couldn't have arrived at a better time.

My must visit events of the month are up as follows:

Bone Island Bare it All Key West: Dec 1 – 4, 2016

This rowdy nudist event is one of the best. If you've never let your balls hang free in public, you've never lived. For a full schedule of events visit: nakedkeywest.com

Key West City Hometown Holiday Parade:

Dec 3, 2016 from 7:00pm to 9:00pm

Our island city shows its holiday spirit with this annual hometown parade. This is the parade made by and for the locals. If you want a truly authentic "Key West Experience," then go to this parade. The route includes Truman Avenue and White Street, proceeds down Truman to Duval, where it takes a right and continues on to Eaton Street.

The 2nd Annual Key West House Party:

Dec 4, 2016 from 6:00pm to 9:00pm

Location: The Blue Macaw, 804 Whitehead St.

This party helps raise funds to support the Key West Wildlife Center through silent auctions and sponsorship as it unites locals and HE Travel alumni from around the world. Tickets are available at the door or by emailing. General admission is $35 and VIP tickets are $45. Included are hors d'oeuvres, beer, wine, cocktails, silent auction and live music hosted by Rock Solomon! Theme: 1950's Drive-In email info@hetravel.com for more information.

Key West 5th Annual POSH Event:

Dec 7, 2016 from 6:30pm to 9:30pm

Location: 205 Whitehead St.

From The Paws Often Steal Hearts, or POSH, party is to be held at the Audubon House & Tropical Gardens, to benefit the Florida Keys Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Attendees are encouraged to wear island-style formal attire and "fascinator" hats. General admission tickets are $40 pre-purchased and $45 at the door.

You may have noticed that most of these events are tied to charity, or are community based. That's right, even getting naked together is a community activity. This month represents what our "One Human Family" motto is all about. Grab a bumper sticker. Take some love home with you. Happy Holidays!

FROM YOUR HOST

Hello Naked Guys,

Welcome to the 21st Bone Island Bare It All. I guess that means we are legal now! Pup Kevin and myself are, as always, looking forward to a fun weekend with great friends, both the familiar "faces" and the first timers.

For the first timers (which is usually about half of you), if you have never been to a naturist event before, you've chosen a good one to start with. You are going to meet some of the nicest guys you will ever meet, and you will go back home with lots of fun stories and even more friends.

Please make sure you check out our water adventures partners. These are some of my favorite things to do here on the island. I just cannot think of anything better than getting out on the water and being naked. Sail on the BluQ catamaran out to a deserted island for snorkeling, canoeing and some fun in the water. They serve lunch and drinks, and if you get marooned on your 3-hour tour, at least you are with a bunch of naked guys! A stand up paddleboard tour with Cody at Nomadic SUP is not to be missed. If you have never tried stand-up-paddleboarding, I promise it is not as difficult as it sounds. You will get to explore the mangroves and back country of the Keys. You will see incredible underwater life in the crystal-clear waters (loggerhead sea turtles, spotted eagle rays and nurse sharks to name a few), beautiful birds (osprey, hawks and herons), and possibly the greatest full moon you have ever experienced. And on the subject of Cody, he is a great instructor, and how can you not have fun naked?!

If you have any questions, or need any assistance, please let us or any of our great volunteers know and we will do our best to help you out. Now it is time to drop your clothes, forget what you left behind, meet some new friends, greet some old ones and have a great time on our island paradise.

Have a fun weekend at Bone Island Bare It All and Play Safe!

FLORIDA KEYS SPCA

Presents our 3rd Annual

Parade OF PAWS

Sasha and Gilroy
Our Reigning Queen & King

& Holiday Bazaar

DECEMBER 10
10 A.M. - 2 P.M.

Located at Higgs Dog Park at Higgs Beach in Key West

An event to benefit the animals of the FKSPCA

The Parade of Paws is our third annual fundraiser to benefit the Animal Care Fund at the Florida Keys SPCA. People from all over secure pledges from their family, friends, neighbors, their friend's friends, their family's neighbors... (You get the idea). And then they come together to parade their four legged friends to support our lifesaving mission caring for our community's homeless animals.

Top earners will earn the opportunity to win prizes and the bragging rights to the title of the 2016 Parade of Paws King, Queen, Prince, Princess, Duke or Duchess for your most treasured companion!

Come and celebrate our dedication to protecting animals in paradise!

Ask Nana

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

I'm going to be home alone this Christmas and I was wondering what your advice would be keeping away the holiday blues?

Scotch.

Then if that doesn't work, or you don't drink, I'd say stock the house with all your favorite foods, watch your favorite movies (that DON'T involve families at Christmas), and avoid social media at all cost! But, again, my first advice is Scotch.

Dear Nana,

My boyfriend gets super horny at Christmas. Like, specifically when we're at his or my family's homes. He's constantly trying to sneak away with me to have a quickie in the attic or the basement or the bedroom. I'm always nervous we're going to get caught. It's not that I don't enjoy the sex I just want our folks to walk in on us or anything. What should I do?

You should sit there and take it like a man!... if you're the bottom. Listen, most couples (gay or straight) would give their eye teeth to have that kind of passion at the holidays. Trust me, if he's "the one" and you're still with him in 30 years, you'll be begging him to "plow your driveway" at Christmas. And who cares if someone walks in? We all walked in on our parents when we were kids and the world didn't end. Why can't our parents' walk in on us? Now, I might leave the sling and the ball gag at home for the holidays. I mean, you want to leave something to surprise them with at the 4th of July picnic?!

Whore--Scopes

Aquarius

Jan 20 – Feb 18

If you gain anymore weight, they are going to make you pay for two seats to go to a movie!

Pisces

Feb 19 – Mar 20

It's so nice of you to do all of this volunteering. I guess they are counting this as your "community service?"

Aries

Mar 21 – Apr 19

This is that one time of year you can get away with being so fat. Put on that red suit with pride!!

Taurus

Apr 20 – May 20

I heard Santa calling your name at the mall. He was yelling Hoe, Hoe, Hoe!

Gemini

May 21 – Jun 20

For once your laziness paid off. Now you can just plug those holiday lights in that you never took down last year.

Cancer

Jun 21 – Jul 22

With the cooler weather, people are wearing more and more. You may want to consider a full ski mask as well to hide that hideous face.

Leo

Jul 23 – Aug 22

One good thing came out of this election. Your hairstyle isn't the worst anymore!

Virgo

Aug 23 – Sep 22

That bridge you burn today may be a needed escape route tomorrow.

Libra

Sep 23 – Oct 22

You're not on the naughty list or the nice list. You're on the "he's so ugly that he's been tortured enough so he's getting a new Lexus" list.

Scorpio

Oct 23 – Nov 21

Baking cookies for Santa is cute when you're 5. Doing it when you're 30 just as an excuse to eat cookies is sad.

Sagittarius

Nov 22 – Dec 21

It's really time to do something about that acne. Maybe a face transplant. That would solve a lot of problems.

Capricorn

Dec 22 – Jan 19

Stop being insecure about your small willie. No one wants to have sex with you anyhow!
