STAY SAFE RIDE SMART

A bicycle is a great way to get around, but stay safe by following the rules of the road.

- A bicycle is like any other vehicle, so you must follow the rules of the road.
 - Bicycles must follow all traffic controls such as signs and signals.
 - Bicycles cannot travel the wrong way down a one way street.
 - Bicycles must be ridden on the right hand side of a two way street.
 - You must signal all turns with hand signals.
 - Headsets cannot be worn while cycling.
 - Riding a bike while under the influence can get you a DUI in Florida.
- Lights are required between sunset and sunrise
 - A white light is required in front and a red light in the rear.
- Riding on the sidewalk or crosswalk is permitted but with these provisions
 - Pedestrians have the right of way. Yield to pedestrians.
 - When passing pedestrians, you must signal your intent before doing so.
- Anyone under the age of 16 must wear a helmet.

Here are a few additional tips that you may find helpful.

- Lock up your bike at all times. If not, you'll probably be walking home.
 - Pass the lock through the frame and the front tire.
 - Be careful not to lock your bike to an adjoining bike by accident.
 - If you lock your bike to private property, it may be impounded.
- When approaching occupied cars, be ready to react if the door opens.

Enjoy your time seeing the best of Key West!

GENVOYA® does not cure HIV-1 infection or AIDS. To control HIV-1 infection and decrease HIV-related illnesses, you must keep taking GENVOYA. Ask your healthcare provider if you have questions about how to reduce the risk of passing HIV-1 to others. Always practice safer sex and use condoms to lower the chance of sexual contact with body fluids. Never reuse or share needles or other items that have body fluids on them.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

What is the most important information I should know about GENVOYA?

GENVOYA may cause serious side effects:

- Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. GENVOYA is not approved to treat HBV. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV and stop taking GENVOYA, your HBV may suddenly get worse. Do not stop taking GENVOYA without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to monitor your health.

Who should not take GENVOYA?

Do not take GENVOYA if you take:

- Certain prescription medicines for other conditions. It is important to ask your healthcare provider or pharmacist about medicines that should not be taken with GENVOYA. Do not start a new medicine without telling your healthcare provider.
- The herbal supplement St. John's wort.
- Any other medicines to treat HIV-1 infection.

What are the other possible side effects of GENVOYA?

Serious side effects of GENVOYA may also include:

- Changes in your immune system. Your immune system may get stronger and begin to fight infections. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any new symptoms after you start taking GENVOYA.
- Kidney problems, including kidney failure. Your healthcare provider should do blood and urine tests to check your kidneys. If you develop new or worse kidney problems, they may tell you to stop taking GENVOYA.

- Too much lactic acid in your blood (lactic acidosis), which is a serious but rare medical emergency that can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: weakness or being more tired than usual, unusual muscle pain, being short of breath or fast breathing, stomach pain with nausea and vomiting, cold or blue hands and feet, feel dizzy or lightheaded, or a fast or abnormal heartbeat.
- Severe liver problems, which in rare cases can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: skin or the white part of your eyes turns yellow, dark "tea-colored" urine, light-colored stools, loss of appetite for several days or longer, nausea, or stomach-area pain.

The most common side effect of GENVOYA is nausea. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any side effects that bother you or don't go away.

What should I tell my healthcare provider before taking GENVOYA?

- All your health problems. Be sure to tell your healthcare provider if you have or have had any kidney or liver problems, including hepatitis virus infection.
- All the medicines you take, including prescription and over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements. Other medicines may affect how GENVOYA works. Keep a list of all your medicines and show it to your healthcare provider and pharmacist. Ask your healthcare provider if it is safe to take GENVOYA with all of your other medicines.
- If you take antacids. Take antacids at least 2 hours before or after you take GENVOYA.
- If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if GENVOYA can harm your unborn baby. Tell your healthcare provider if you become pregnant while taking GENVOYA.
- If you are breastfeeding (nursing) or plan to breastfeed. Do not breastfeed. HIV-1 can be passed to the baby in breast milk.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Please see Important Facts about GENVOYA, including important warnings, on the following page.

Ask your healthcare provider if GENVOYA is right for you.

WHAT IS GENVOYA?

GENVOYA is a 1-pill, once-a-day prescription medicine used to treat HIV-1 in people 12 years and older who weigh at least 77 pounds. It can either be used in people who are starting HIV-1 treatment and have never taken HIV-1 medicines before, or people who are replacing their current HIV-1 medicines and whose healthcare provider determines they meet certain requirements. These include having an undetectable viral load (less than 50 copies/mL) for 6 months or more on their current HIV-1 treatment. GENVOYA combines 4 medicines into 1 pill taken once a day with food. GENVOYA is a complete HIV-1 treatment and should not be used with other HIV-1 medicines.

LGBT Book Reviews by Terri Schlichenmeyer

“WEDLOCKED: THE PERILS OF MARRIAGE EQUALITY”

BY KATHERINE FRANKE

.2015, New York University Press | $26.00 | 275 pages

You're not in any hurry.

The ring's on your finger, the engagement was just announced, and you both feel like you've got plenty of time. Now's your chance to enjoy the process of getting married. Here's your opportunity to plan the future. But “Wedlocked: The Perils of Marriage Equality” by Katherine Franke asks the question: why marry at all?

When President George Washington died, his will stipulated that his slaves be given their freedom when his wife, Martha, who inherited them, would die.

This, says Katherine Franke, accidentally “put a price on” Martha's head but moreover, it was an acknowledgment on Washington's part that shows one complexity of slavery: marriage between the Washington slaves meant that freeing his without freeing hers could break up families. This issue, and others before and after the Civil War, illustrates how “many of the experiences of African Americans held out a message to the same-sex marriage movement today.”

Throughout American history, Franke says, the “rules” of marriage for non-white or gay individuals hid a double-edged sword of enhanced rights and enforced matrimonial laws complicated by pre-Emancipation fluidity of relationships and looser definitions of “marriage” within African American communities then; and by somewhat of a lack of awareness in the LGBT community, complicated by different state laws now. The bottom line that's often not emphasized: when a couple marries, the state suddenly "acquires a legal interest in your relationship." Now, as then, marriage may also be legally "forced" on a couple: in the case of former slaves, to gain benefits in wartime; for LGBT couples, in the continuation of health benefits. Even after all that, marriage, as Franke reminds readers, has never offered a guarantee from discrimination.

Is it possible, Franke asks, that "the inability to marry creates a kind of freedom from the 'bonds' of marriage?" At a time when the rates of marriage in the Black community are low and LGBT parents are demanding new legal definitions of "family," will marriage become antiquated? Or is the "freedom" to marry just another way for society to meddle in the lives of marginalized individuals?

Surely, few readers would consider "Wedlocked" a fun weekend read. It's not exactly what you'd take to the beach with you. Fun, no. Interesting, absolutely.

It's also quite thought-provoking. Author Katherine Franke is, in part, Director of the Center for Gender and Sexuality Law at Columbia University, and in this book, she asks hard questions between jaw-dropping history lessons and proof that marriage is both burden and boon to anyone who's not white and straight. That's not to say that the institution is dead; instead, Franke wonders if, of all rights denied former slaves and gay individuals, marriage may've been the oddest choice for legal battles.

But which other right would've been better? The answer to that seems to be left open for discussion; indeed, readers are given much to ponder from this heavy-duty, scholarly book. Just beware that time is the key to opening "Wedlocked," now in paperback. Enjoy and contemplate, but don't be in any hurry.

MY BIG GAY LIFE

Brad Loekle

IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE F*CK THIS

Well kiddies, we've made it... somewhat... through our first year in the newly formed Republic of Trumpistan. For worse or for worser, we're hear, he's still here and so are the holidays. I know this past year seems a lot like a giant lump of all the coal Santa never gave us for all our little naughties throughout the decades. And I know there's now a certain ominous overtone to festive times of year when we all feel like we're waiting for the other shoe to drop. Whether that shoe is Mueller's or Kim Jun Un's we have yet to see. But here's a little pre-apocalyptic Christmas carol for you. It's set to the tune of "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas". It will be available soon on iTunes and in bomb shelters everywhere!

*It's beginning to look a lot like Fuck This
Everywhere you go,
Take a look at the news at ten, it's depressing once again
With cops that kill and senate bills that blow
It's beginning to look a lot like Fuck This,
Wars on every shore,
But the Pettiest sight to see is Ann Coulter who will be Supporting trump- That WHORE.*

*A bunch of hooligans loot, packing pistols that shoot
Humanity's at an end,
Sarah Huckabee squawks as we all stare and gawk
Civility's dead, my friends
And the Media can hardly wait for Trump to Tweet again*

(Musical interlude... whilst Rome burns...)

*It's beginning to look a lot like Fuck This
Everywhere you go,
The EPA is on the ropes, Why the hell don't we all shoot dope?!
And any minute Kim Jun Un's about to blow!
It's beginning to look a lot like Fuck This,
You have to laugh or you would cry,
And the thing that will get us through is the resisting that we do
If not now, then when???
Sure it's Christmas ahhhh-gain.....*

MAN ABOUT TOWN

T

The holidays are upon us and that means one thing, house guests. For me, November brings quite a few visitors between the holidays, the Key West Film Festival, and just those escaping the cold.

This also gives me the opportunity to get out more often. Sometimes I go to old favorite places, and other times, I try something new.

So much has happened, I may have to continue this one next month.

One of my favorite places to enjoy dinner and conversation is Bliss. Located just at the entrance to Bahama Village on Petronia Street, this little gem offers Colombian cuisine and if you think you know what that is, you are probably wrong. As you probably know, I have a pretty mild palate, and I find the food amazing. Nothing I have eaten has been spicy, but everything is full of flavor. A visitor actually told me I am now obligated to make sure they are still here in a year when he returns. He mentioned that we may go twice during his next visit. I personally can't get enough of Grandma's Shrimp with has a white wine and cream mushroom sauce that is to die for. Bliss is a Key West "must do."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

If you must stay right on Duval for people watching, a good choice is 915. 915 has a great wine selection but what brings me back time after time is their Filet Mignon. Every time I have it, it is tender and cooked to perfection. Even though I love the filet, it may very well be the side dish that really calls me back. It may seem odd that a high end restaurant would have fries with their filet, but you won't feel that way once you try them. Perfectly cooked and just the right size to make them perfectly crispy without being overly crisp. Plus, you get to watch everyone walk buy wishing they had some 915 french fries!

Something I don't get to do often enough, and I really need to work on that, is take in a show at La Te Da.

The night we chose, it was Christopher Peterson performing. Christopher has been entertaining for so long, well, I won't say how long or he will likely never talk to me again, but let's just say long enough that his show is refined, professional, and still funny as hell. Christopher brings alive the characters of Marilyn Monroe, Carol Channing, Bette Midler, Liza Minnelli, and a few others, all with live vocals, and the whole time transforming between characters basically right on stage. Add in a little banter between himself and the audience and you will leave both mesmerized by the illusions, and a little sore from the laughter. Make it a point to see this show while you're in town.

FROM YOUR HOST

Welcome to Cayo Hueso!

A little over 500 years ago, the Spanish explorer Juan Ponce de León first discovered Florida. His Spanish brethren soon named our little island Cayo Hueso, or Bone Island. Who knew those Spaniard's were so kinky? OK, maybe we are thinking of something different than they were when we use that title! Regardless, we owe it to our Spanish friends for the well-known name that now attracts men from around the world to our Bone Island.

We are very excited to share this December's Bone Island Bare It All with our many returning friends. Even more so, we are excited to introduce the continuing newcomers to our weekend of all-male naturist fun as only Key West can offer. We promise you will leave after the weekend with new friends, new experiences, and maybe just a little worn out. We hope you will enjoy all the fun we have in store – including the Mr. Naked Key West 2018 Contest. Come put your best foot-long forward.

Bone Island was started twelve years ago as a way to gather naturist men for a weekend of camaraderie and share with them the beauty and fun of Key West. It wouldn't happen without the support and encouragement of my friends in the local community. This event is without question a community effort and I thank all of our business partners for their continued assistance. They welcome us on their properties with open arms, and they and their staffs provide us fantastic venues to enjoy our weekend together. During your weekend, please show your support to all of our sponsors and partners, including the servers and service people who are working hard to make sure you have a fun and comfortable visit.

I'm very proud of how far Bone Island Bare It All has come since the first weekend in December 2006. Each time, more men discover our unique brand of fun and go home telling their buddies about it. Finally, thank YOU for making Bone Island Bare It All the joy it is. Without you guys, I'd just be sitting in my backyard naked. So thanks for choosing to make the trip down the Keys. Remember the sunscreen and to play safe. Enjoy our Bone Island!

Spilling the hottest tea in Key West

Until our phone gets turned off for non payment, we'll be here to listen to the latest dish. We'd never use real names but I'll bet if you ask around, you'll find out who's doing who! If you have some hot gossip, email us at tea@qkeywest.com. We'll keep your name out of it because we know how to keep secrets!

So many things are happening in Key West that I keep running out of minutes on my Cricket phone.

Too many familiar faces showing up on the sheriff's website again, and some that don't show up because the arrest was on federal charges.

Seems that one bar is turning into a boxing ring. It's been so active lately that they can probably make some extra money charging cover for the "big fight" each night.

It seems that the hurricane brought a whole new level to sister season. It's a good thing pregnancy isn't possible or we would have lots of births during Pride next year.

I continue to get phone calls asking when Key West will be open again. Thank you mainstream media for making everyone think Key West was wiped off the face of the earth. I can't make this any clearer other than to say, we are here, we are open, and there are plenty of boys to play with! Come visit.

ASK NANA

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

My Boyfriend and I have an argument (friendly) over the Christmas tree every year. I like a nice, big, fresh, live tree and he prefers a small tree. And would actually prefer an artificial tree. Is there any compromise?

Is there any compromise between a living tree and a never-been-alive tree? Are you asking me if I know of any Santeria witch doctors who can make you some sort of undead zombie tree that will make you both happy and haunt all our dreams for eternity? If so, the answer is NO. But I do think there is a compromise that can be made. The first and easiest compromise would be for one of you to let it be okay for the Christmas tree to not be entirely about your wants. Maybe he gives this to you or you give this to him. Just don't either of you go with that idea unless the one compromising is really willing to do so without resentment. You don't want Christmas Tree-Gate to pop up in every argument from here til Arbor Day. The other option you could do is alternate years. He could buy the artificial tree he wants and he gets to use it every other year. Then on the other years you get your live tree. This is assuming your relationship survives past the first year one of you doesn't get the damn tree you each insist on. I hope that helps and I hope your stockings are hung with care. Or at least just hung.

Dear Nana,

Do you have any tricks for keeping everyone happy at the holiday table? I have over a pretty good mixed group of family and some friends each year and all too often some fight or debate breaks out and makes for a somewhat awkward evening. How do I make sure people are in the holiday spirit... and stay there!

Well one easy way to make your home a happy one at the holidays is to go to someone else's. It's not the worst idea to have friends and family rotate who hosts the holidays, this way if things get weird you can always faint turkey-coma and lunge for your car keys. But, if that's not an option that appeals to you, then I'd say this: make up a cute, festive sign of Holiday Rules. Things like "absolutely no politics talk at all, even if you're agreeing with each other. Talk about art, music, family, friends, ideas, the weather, or Santa... but no politics!" That right there should cut out 50% of awkward moments. If it's a group of people who have a long history (like family) add things like "No settling grudges tonight" and style holiday paintings didn't just happen. They needed to be staged... which is a theatrical word for "forced". And include a fun punishment like: "Those who break the rules have to do all the dishes." Or "If you break the rules you have to spend 20 seconds with a bucket of ice poured down your pants to help you cool off."

Those, in fairness, those sorts of punishments might make everyone try to get someone else to break the rules! Happy HoliGays!

DO YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? OF COURSE YOU DO! WHY NOT LET NANA HELP YOU?!
