What? You want to meet hundreds of like-minded women on Key West at a pool party? Sounds like you need to come to town for Womenfest. This is the largest women's (lesbian's) social event of the year in Key West. Fritzie, her fantabulous lady Chantal P. and the Womenfest Committee (we're lesbians – of course there's a committee) have been working their TAILS off to get the greatest events lined up to bring women from all over the world. Yeah, that's right. I said world. Canadians, French women, I even met Australian woman once at Womenfest. It's a wild time.

So, back to the pool party...

It's like 100 women in sports bras, board shorts, bikini tops and glitter all in one place enjoying the jamming tunes spun by DJ Rude Girl. Old School lesbians and the young and hip all vibe together in one place. Something about Divine Feminine Energy meets the Key West Island Vibe and it all rocks together to the beat of Mother Nature's ocean waves.

The party kicks off on Wednesday, September 3rd with a luncheon, a welcome party at Birdcage Cabaret and a Cabaret Drag Show designed especially for the ladies! The Decades of Divas theme begins the next day with a Disco Happy Hour with SWAG at Bobby's Monkey bar, games at the American Legion Hall and a presentation by local legend Susan Kent, a Sunset Sail doubling down on the decades theme with great music and end it with a GREEN 70's/80's Hippie Party back at the Birdcage Cabaret dancing into the night.

If you didn't stay up all night long shakin' that a$$ you just might be an early bird and headed to the Plogging event to help keep our beaches sparkly like the glitter you will continue to find in unusual places ever since the pool party. If you aren't quite an 8'ocklocker, there is a Key Lime Bike tour that gives you secret tidbits and sometimes even fresh fruit snacks along the way but ALWAYS ends with key lime pie. Key Lime Pie and Coffee. Perfect Key West morning. If you are not a morning person and aren't really a fan of being clothed, the clothing optional snorkel trip on the Blu Q is a great way to rise and shine. Don't forget to put sunscreen on your cheeks... Friday's party keeps going with a welcome party at Bourbon, Jello Wrestling at AquaPlex with BruceKey as emcee and referee (sign up early to be a participant!!), then there is Saphhic Speed Dating all before dinner.

LEZ GO OUT

We slip coolly into the 90's with Marjory Lee's 90's Alt Rock Band at Ramshead Southernmost which has fabulous food and drinks. Marjory will then close out Friday with a Lavendar Ladies of Music History high-energy concert at the American Legion Hall Post 168. Limited seating and a great dance floor await.

Saturday starts with a brand new event, a fragrance making class. If I could have pre-bought tickets to this, I would have. This totally speaks to my witchy potion-loving creative side and I can't wait to try it. Whether you want to swing with the patchouli of the 60's and 70's, imitate the Happy Clinique-style punchiness of the 90's or create your version of the 2000's Calvin Klein naked scent, this is your chance. Once your heady with scents of your very own you can go back to dipping in the pool at the Lighthouse Hotel, one of the hosts of this years event! There's a Rainbow Trolley Tour, Decades of Divas PROM and the afterparty at Birdcage Cabaret to make Saturday unforgettable. If you came to the island single, chances are you're not alone any longer so you'll have someone else to help find all of the glitter.

Sunday starts with Drag Brunch at the Key West Cooking School & Bar with kings and queens to wake up your party spirit early on a Sunday morning. A true Key West tradition called Hotdog Church commences at 3pm where you'll meet incredible local women with long island histories and they might even tell you why we call it Hotdog Church if you stick around long enough. The oldest and truest tradition closes out the 2025 event with Le Te Da's Tea Dance! DJ Rude Girl will spin tunes from ALL of the decades and we'll dance until we drip.. I mean drop. So, Lez Go Out and meet up at Womenfest 2025! See you at the pool with a handful of glitter...

“JUST GOOD MANNERS: A QUINTESSENTIAL GUIDE TO COURTESY, CHARM, GRACE AND DECORUM” BY WILLIAM HANSON

c.2025, Gallery Books | $28.99 | 272 pages

So. Many. Forks.

You're glad you're not doing the dishes at the end of this dinner – but in the meantime, what's protocol? If this event wasn't a make-or-break, filled-with-repercussions kind of deal for you, you wouldn't care; you'd use one fork, one spoon, and enjoy your meal, thank you. So please pass the salt and the new book “Just Good Manners” by William Hanson.

Dining at a restaurant not long ago, Hanson noticed a glaring difference between how his fellow Brits order a meal, and how Americans do it. We might share a language, he says, and we're a lot alike but we're also different in many ways. Manners are one of them.

It may seem that formal manners are archaic, even quaint, but Hanson says that they're needed now more than ever. Manners help smooth social transactions. They leave room for grace in many situations, and they help put people at ease.

“Contemporary etiquette,” he says, “is rooted in six key principles.”

Humility is what ensures that everyone at your meeting or dinner is comfortable, not just you. Hospitality welcomes everyone to the table. Knowing one's rank shows respect. Says Hanson, “politeness takes patience” and humor, as manners evolve. And although it sounds counter-intuitive, manners are somewhat based on passive-aggressiveness, which helps you be direct, but not too much.

Here, you'll learn how to deal with introductions in different situations and what to do with a pronoun faux-pas. You'll see that merely greeting someone can be fraught with danger, so be sure you know who's who before you enter a room. Learn to avoid five "taboo" topics when engaging in small-talk. If you're interrupted, know how to kindly gain control of a conversation again. Find out how the use of slang tells a listener who you really are. Know how to be a good guest, and the kind of host people appreciate.

And yes, you'll learn about those many, many forks...

You do not live in a bubble. You don't work in one, either, and smoothing ruffled feathers is needed more than ever in today's world so maybe it's time to learn how to do that from a very unruffled source. With "Just Good Manners," it could even set you apart.

Indeed, author William Hanson makes a case for politeness-as-diplomacy here, in a book that's very Brit-centric but that includes anecdotes about disastrous situations in other countries. Tales like those are fun to read, in a Schadenfreude way, but they also illustrate why it's essential to understand other cultures in business settings as well as in many casual events. If that sounds daunting, rest assured that Hanson uses his own advice, putting readers at ease with humor and charm and by taking the scariness out of manners by making them an easy, maybe even enjoyable, challenge.

You won't feel scolded when you read "Just Good Manners," but you will learn enough to be someone people want around. It'll give you confidence. Before your next big event, it'll give you something to chew on.

MY BIG GAY LIFE

SHORT KINGS

“Do you wanna see some hot dwarves?”

This was the DM I woke up to the other day. Normally, I would never respond to such an inquiry as I know it's usually just a phishing scam. Although, the first thing anyone would do after they stole my identity is give it back. Have fun with that 580-credit score!

This DM came from someone I know. Not the most trustworthy sort of person but certainly the kind you would expect to have access to a curated collection of appealing little people. And, I have to tell you, I do have a soft spot in my heart, and a hard spot in my shorts, for little people. I've had some absolutely wonderful men in my life (and in my caboose) that have been the ultimate in “Short King.” And I do love a short king. And I do mean short. Let me put it this way: I will date a Cuban but I will marry a Lilliputian. I find that little people pack more personality and punch, pound for pound, than most of us biggies. You can keep your 6'3" Clark Kent fuck-boi. He doesn't fit in the bed. He doesn't fit in the shower. So, he doesn't fit in my life!

I travel 30+ weeks a year. Give me a carry-on top any day! Oh, also, if you didn't know this... many, many little men and dwarves are tops. I've been with little people with such significant penis-to-body ratios that I struggle to understand how they stay conscious while erect. I mean, it would appear that all the blood in their body would be required to raise that flag pole!

This is all to say that, yes, I did want to see some hot dwarves. And, no, I was not disappointed. And, yes, I did end up hooking up with one of the guys my friend knew. And, yes, he DID bang my back out like a screen door in a hurricane. So, I'm here (really as a public service announcement) to say that if you are over looking (pardon the pun) little people as sexual partners... you're missing out. Though, your loss is my gain so maybe I shouldn't be letting you in on my little (sorry, again) secret after all. In fact, forget everything I've said. Don't you dare go rewatch 'Game of Thrones' just to jerk off to Peter Dinklage now?! You're stuck with your giant meat-sacks who hit their heads on door frames and have to have the sunroof open when they drive because their Marmaduke heads can't fit in a normal car.

You made your enormously long bed, now sleep in it!

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

My sister is super into the zodiac. So much so that she plans what she does or doesn't do based around the stars and if Mercury is in retrograde. It's actually impacting our family relationships and her life. She recently turned down a job because of something "the stars" said about it. This has led to her asking me, and our parents, for money to tide her over until another job opportunity comes up. This has been slowly building for years but now it seems to control her whole life. What can we do? What should we do?

Have you considered slapping the shit out of her? We all know you're not 'supposed' to shake a baby anymore. But you can certainly shake some sense into a grown woman who's acting like an 8-year-old fairy princess. I know tough love isn't everyone's cup of tea. But you also can't expect someone to walk on their own two feet if you're all willing to carry her every time she falls down. Perhaps an offer to pay for some counseling, or even just talking to her about where this extreme reliance on the stars is coming from? When people are feeling out of control within their own selves, they will often turn to outside forms of control. This could be anything from religion to astrology to alcohol to that large-toothed Tony Robbins cult guy. Convincing someone that the planet Mercury doesn't give a shit about their career choices is a bit of hard nut to crack. But I think you should all try everything you can to help her... outside of placating her. It sounds like she might have some deeper emotional stuff going on inside and the stars are just a Band-Aid she's putting over a bigger problem.

Dear Nana,

My brother recently told me that he's having an affair on his wife. He's sworn me not to tell her, even though she and I are close and spend time together without him. He says he doesn't know if he wants to end his marriage, he's still "figuring stuff out." I love my brother and I want to be loyal to him, but I also think what he's doing is horrible. Where does my loyalty to my brother end and me being true to my own ethics begin?

I know you love your brother, but I don't even know the guy so I feel totally okay with saying he's a douche. And, if we are to base an opinion off of just his actions, he seems determined to cause pain to as many people in his life as possible. I don't see why he felt the need to make you an unwilling accomplice in his poor choices. He claims to not know what he wants out of any of these relationships, so why are you supposed to do... choose for him? These all sound like the acts of a man-baby. You can love someone in your life but also refuse to let them drag you into the mud with them. Maybe he's hoping you'll force his hand? Maybe he's just a giant, stupid, man-baby? Regardless, he's put you in a position where everyone else will now also judge you based on your actions or inactions now that you know. You didn't consent to being dragged into this, but it is now on you to find a way out for yourself. And whatever the consequences of HIS actions are... they're his, not yours.

DO YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? OF COURSE YOU DO! WHY NOT LET NANA HELP YOU?!
